

About the Next Door Boys

The Next Door Boys are an up and coming band based in the Music City of Nashville, Tennessee. They have performed all over Nashville to include Franklin, Brentwood, Hendersonville, Spring Hill and Columbia, TN. They currently perform the last Sunday of each month on Broadway at the Mellow Mushroom stage. Nashville's Broadway is the epicenter of entertainment including Roberts Western World, Tootsies and Blake Shelton's "Ole Red".

The band has opened for Rubiks Groove at the 3500 capacity Eddie Arnold Amphitheater for the Summer Concert Series in 2019 after coming in first at the Brentwood Battle of the Bands. On February 29th, 2020, the band came in 2nd in the Rocketown "Battle of the Bands" where they won the crowd vote, competing against nine high school aged bands!

NDB has been mentored by local artists to include Rich Redmond of Jason Aldean's band, Greg Upchurch of 3 Doors Down and Adam Shoenfeld, guitarist for Faith Hill & Tim McGraw, to name a few. While performing on Nashville's Music Row, NDB grabbed the attention of actor, Kevin Sizemore, resulting in an invite on set. Kevin even joined the NDB for a mentoring session.

The Next Door Boys play classic rock, southern rock and pop covers with a set list of over 30 songs. Recently, they have begun writing originals with their own unique sound. All six boys are accomplished musicians who are in formal lessons and have played individually or with a group for the past 5~10 years.
